MEMORANDUM FOR SEE DISTRIBUTION

SUBJECT: Special Warfare: A Selected Bibliography

1. Special warfare, which encompasses unconventional warfare, psychological operations, and counterinsurgency, is undergoing a resurgence of interest within the Department of Defense. The desire to have a flexible force structure capable of responding to a wide range of threats has led the Army to create the 1st Special Operations Command at Fort Bragg, North Carolina. This new Command encompasses all active duty Special Forces, Ranger, Civil Affairs and Psychological Operations units. An increase in the size of this force structure is planned. Similarly, the name of the Army's doctrinal and instructional base for these capabilities at Fort Bragg, North Carolina, has been changed from the Institute for Military Assistance to the John F. Kennedy Special Warfare Center--an interesting historical footnote, for the title "Special Warfare Center" was also used during the period 1956 to 1969.

2. To assist student researchers in a better understanding of a defense subject undergoing a serious revival of interest and emphasis both within the Army and the current Administration, the USAWC Library has developed this bibliography of literature on special warfare. The bibliography focuses primarily on unconventional warfare--to include guerrilla warfare--and counterinsurgency, with emphasis on U. S. experience in these fields since the early 1950's. Psychological operations was treated in a separate USAWC bibliography published in February, 1983, copies of which are available in the USAWC Library. This bibliography on special warfare does not pretend to be comprehensive; it reflects only those sources readily available in the USAWC Library collection. For additional information, please contact the compiler, Mr. Robert S. Wood, Reference Librarian, Services Branch, U. S. Army War College Library, Autovon 242-3660/Commercial (717) 245-3660.
